Front cover

Community members may have been the victims of 'sneak breaks' which is a burglary where offenders enter the dwelling through unlocked doors and open windows when the occupant is home. There have also been many instances where offenders simply enter through these access points when the resident is not at home. In this issue of the Police Bulletin prevention tips are offered in a bid to reduce the incidence of 'sneak breaks', with police appealing to the community to ensure they secure their premises properly, even when they are home.

The front cover photo is a dramatisation and not a real depiction of events. Thank you to Kevin O'Dwyer for appearing in this dramatisation and to both Mr O'Dwyer and Craig Wood for the use of their premises.
